Message from the President

"A ship is safe in harbor, but that's not what ships are for" John A. Shedd
(From Inspiring quotes, June 29, 2021)

I'm Guilty! Sometimes, I am in a painting rut sitting next to my personal harbor waiting for the ship of ideas to come in. Sitting motionless I am not doing what I was created for. I need to put my fingers around the helm of the ship (aka my watercolor brush) and send it into the water and paint to get any possible ideas moving along. The destination may not be known at the time I begin, but it is the journey of it that can bring rewards.

We've all been given a way to be rewarded in one way or another. We can share our time, our talents or education with the world or each other. We do not have to get paid monetarily to be rewarded; the act of giving of oneself is immeasurable and priceless.

By being a mentor to someone wanting to know how to draw or paint. By being available to help a neighbor when needed or to donate to a charitable organization that may need funds to stay afloat or to patronize a business struggling to survive. Our world has become a lot bigger audience through the use of electronic media, but it has become also smaller too without a personal human touch. We can reach more people in a shorter amount of time. Let's make good use of it and let our ships sail on to bright horizons by creating what only we alone can do.

We may not win a prize in this year's international juried exhibit or even get accepted into it or anything we enter. We will never know unless we try. John F Kennedy said, "Only those who dare to fail greatly can ever achieve greatly".

Get out of the harbor and be a great adventurous sailing ship.

Linda Young
PWS president

We Welcome our new workshop coordinators:

Jacqueline Humphries-Bickley (Jackie), a resident of Dillsburg, PA for over five decades, became a Pennsylvania Watercolor Society member in 2017 after joining the Free Spirits art group in Dillsburg in 2016.

She joined the board in April 2021 as a volunteer to assist in the planning and running of the artists' workshops sponsored once or twice annually by PWS.

Her history of interest in art began in her mid-20s when she visited art museums and periodically took oil painting classes at the Harrisburg Art Association. She followed with taking several years of watercolor open studio classes. In the past she was drawn to the works of Edvard Munch, Amedeo Modigliani and the Impressionists.

Her interest in art and painting was woven between decades of raising three children and a full-time career in mental health and family therapy. Following her retirement in 2015, she began focusing more time and energy on painting, gardening and time with her horses. Her subject choice for painting often reflects these interests.

Jackie has taken two portrait workshops with Pam Wenger; two workshops through PWS, one with Sterling Edwards and one with Joyce Hicks; and during this past year of COVID she has taken numerous ZOOM workshops with Mike Willdridge, David Smith and Randy Hale. Her focus and goal is now to use her new watercolor skills and techniques to create her own pieces from her own photographs, one of which will be acceptable to enter into a PWS show.

Maureen Asper - As a young child, Maureen remembered joining her mother on plein air trips around the central Pennsylvania area with Earl Blust, Dave Keefer, Lyn Marsh, and Ginny Wright. As she grew older and joined Girl Scouts, her mother began offering art classes to Maureen and her friends and the art seed was firmly planted. She painted throughout school, but life and career distracted her from continuing to paint regularly. Although she continued to draw throughout her life with pencils and pastels, it wasn't until the past several years that she began to paint seriously. Joining a lively group from Dillsburg, she started to paint in watercolor, loving the unexpected results of the medium. Wishing to learn more about watercolors, she attended the PWS workshops and other lessons. Over the years she has attended workshops with Joyce Hicks, Sterling Edwards, Soon Warren, Brienne Brown, Pam Wenger, Phil Schmidt, Lynne Yancha, Deb Watson, David Smith, Robert Burrige, Zufar Bikbov, Jason Tako, and Watercolor Live 2020 (virtually).

She enjoys painting florals and still life subjects but is attracted most to portraits and animal paintings. She especially enjoys painting en plein air whenever she can since she loves nature, and working from life offers much better results. Now retired from nursing, she loves her new home with a studio utilizing the entire living room where she often holds art classes for children and others who express interest.

Maureen has five adult kids who are all artists (music and/or visual) and three grandchildren, also artistically inclined. Three of her children live in Pennsylvania, while one is in Colorado and another one is in North Carolina. At this time in her life, she spends six months in her studio in the Mechanicsburg area and the other half of the year she is RVing all over the country with her constant sidekick Finn, a faithful standard poodle, who enjoys sitting at her feet while she paints.

We welcome our new treasurer:

MaryRose Noto-Hardy

I'm honored by the trust you have placed in me and eager to assume the position as treasurer of PWS. My background in accounting and experience as treasurer of other nonprofit organizations has afforded me the skills necessary to be successful in this position.

From a young age I've had an interest in visual arts and was intrigued by artists' use of creativity to express and interpret their world. My own artistic passion lies with painting transparent watercolors and acrylics in loose and nonrepresentational styles.

Other interests of mine include the study of Ikebana, Bridge, hiking and scuba diving.

I hope to be an asset to PWS.

Painting portraits in watercolor can seem like a daunting task, but many of us can't resist the urge to try it. We may have a loved one who we'd like to paint or we may simply be drawn to the challenge of capturing an interesting character on paper. It's so easy to "tighten up" our portrait paintings because of our focus on "getting it right". Painting the "quick sketch" portraits focuses on loosening up that process and working to achieve a more relaxed look that highlights the beauty and freshness of the watercolor medium.

I will have partially pre-drawn portraits for you to work on as part of our exercises - or you may draw free-hand. You will be asked to bring along one or two pre-drawn portraits (head only) of your own on watercolor paper. (on approximately 9"x11" paper).

The 3-day format of the workshop will give us time to practice the techniques we are exploring. The references we will be working with will cover a wide range of ages and skin tones.

This workshop will be a combination of demo and hands-on portrait work.

- ◆ During Days 1 and 2, you will primarily work from partially pre-drawn portraits that will be provided in the class. You will finish the drawings, but the basics will be there so we can spend most of our time painting. (If you prefer to work completely freehand, that is fine.)
- ◆ On day 3, we will work on one or two portraits of your own that you have prepared for the class.
- ◆ Tech Tips: Each day we will explore a technology tool to use to help you in your portrait paintings.
- ◆ Students should be comfortable with painting in watercolor, but do not need to have.
- ◆ Supply list available on the website or by emailing pswrkshops@gmail.com to get one
